MAKE A WISh...

Make a Wish With Us . . . For Our Future Success

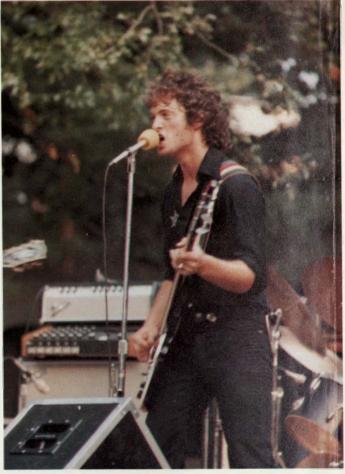

"... Here, if the life is full, you can be dull too and no great harm done ... But, you've no such colors in the sky, no such lure in the distances, no such sadness in the evenings ... Oh, the dreaming! The dreaming! ... Your imagination never lets you alone ... never convinces you, never satisfies you ... it makes you able to face reality ... it saves everything ..."

In O'Neill's The Iceman Cometh, the hero struggles endlessly over whether facing the grim realities of life is worth giving up one's beautiful dreams. We believe, during this Centennial year, when we in Wellesley will celebrate our community's 100th birthday, that we should indulge in our dreams.

The grim realities of life 1981, with the most severe economic crisis in 30 years, are not easy for us to face. We are experiencing drastic budget cuts in our schools due to Proposition 2½. We're losing 48 of our teachers; we're watching our elementary schools be closed; we're feeling the effects of program cuts. We are saying goodbye forever to the most caring friend we've had as our principal, Mr. Connors. Times are tough. Many of us feel frustrated and saddened.

So, let's make a wish for a better, brighter future. Join us in blowing out the candles on Wellesley's 100th birthday cake. We'll celebrate not only for the past 100 years, but for the coming ones. Indulge in your dreams as you turn the pages with us

We Made Wishes for Academic and Social Success...

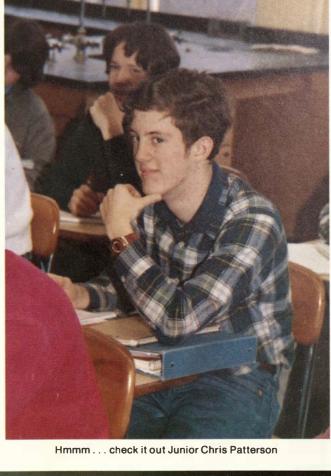

An individual's wishes are as unique as the person. A wish is easily described as an invocation of good fortune to someone, or a goal in life. Though wishes are often nothing more than just that, they provide a sense of escape, motivation, strength and desire for an individual to reach and achieve the highest goals. Wishes are often a desire to better oneself materialistically, emotionally, intellectually, and socially. These aspects of life are most predominant through the high school years where they begin full development, passing through a crucial period of time.

In between cramming for exams and applying to colleges, Wellesley High students find time to pursue these wishes, as well as relaxing with friends. Each day, the school is filled with an odd mixture of studious pupils and pleasure seekers.

While some strive towards futures as lawyers and biochemical engineers, others away the hours listening to albums in the library or aimlessly wandering through the halls. However big or small, everyone contributes something meaningful towards achieving their wishes and goals, and they find time to take advantage of the school's assets to help wishes come true.

In order to attain success, we must have a goal in mind. In order to compete, we must have a competitor, whether it be against another team or reaching for success within ourselves. Without hope and aspiration, we will not experience pain; neither will we feel thrills.

Fortunately, the nature of man is to strive to be the best, the victor, #1. We all love to float along in a victorious high after a successful day on the athletic field. Fans thrive on the spirited chills which engulf them as they congratulate their team. These glorious emotions break forth only because of crossed-fingered anxieties and undeniable hopes in the hearts of athletes and the cheers of their fans. The exhilaration of dreams come true as a rare and wondrous experience. From the awesome tackle, to the recordbreaking high jump, to the inspiring state championship, we see our hopes, our wishes unfold into beautiful dream-like realities.

Each year, as the senior class approaches graduation, the concept of friendship becomes important. On the surface, our years in high school are spent preparing for college or a career. However, a few of us students will remember our schoolwork as vividly as the friends we made.

Memories of the experiences we shared during our three years at Wellesley will remain with us always. A unique bond exists between us that secures our friendships. Though it was scholastic endeavors that brought us together, it will be the support we gain through friends that will help us to succeed in life's human relationships.

No one can predict in which direction we the members of the class of 1981 will turn. When we do disperse, it is our wish that the strong ties to friends developed will continue to be an essential part of our being.

Our Faculty Made Their Wishes . . .

Our teachers wish for scholars; we wish for good grades. Our teachers wish for stimulating class discussions; we wish to participate in the learning process. Our teachers wish us to adhere to standards of excellence; we wish to stretch our minds to grow intellectually.

Living and learning ... we wish to know ourselves better . . . we wish to understand the world around us more clearly  $\ldots$  we wish to mature, however painfully, into reflective, responsible adults. Our teachers wish that we will leave Wellesley High with the skills, the understanding, and the insights we need to live rewarding, fulfilling lives.

We all wish the negative forces outside the classrooms did not exist - Proposition 21/2, budget cuts, school closings, declining enrollment, teacher layoffs.

What's your wish for academic success? As you read on with us, whether you're a teacher or a student, make your own private wish . . .

We All Wish He Didn't Have to Leave.

Slowly, in late January, a rumor floated around the school. Eventually, to everyone's chagrin, Mr. Connors confirmed the rumor. We learned that our Principal Timothy P. Connors, would be leaving Wellesley High with our class in June to become superintendent of schools in Woonsocket, Rhode Island. Since he arrived at W.H.S. five years ago, his administration has encouraged a more open, congenial relationship between students, faculty and the administration. His philosophy was to "minimize time spent in the office and maximize time spent in the school." Mr. Connors achieved this through his "corridor counseling" techniques and his "open door" policy. Anyone who wished could have frequent access to him. bypassing the bureaucracy.

quent access to him, bypassing the bureaucracy.

Before Mr. Connors became "our principal" he was "their principal" at Bellengham Junior/Senior High School in Bellingham, Mass., from 1972-1975. An ex-Marine, and championship basketball player, he was an All-American in football. He received his B.S. at Springfield College in 1966 after transferring from the University of lowa in 1958. By 1970, he had earned an MA in education from Springfield College, then began teaching economics at Enfield High School in Enfield, Connecticut. He soon moved to the position of assistant principal of the same school from 1969-1970. In the spring of 1971 and fall of 1972, Connors taught education at Springfield College. Finally, after a lengthy search of nearly a year, Wellesley offered Mr. Connors the position of Principal of Wellesley High School. It was a wise decision to recruit and hire him.

His unpretentious, people-oriented manner was simple but allowed for creativity. He motivated us to achieve our full potential with his honest, hard-working, open administration. He helped build positive self-concepts in us as individuals.

All of us were touched by his warmth and concern . . . students, faculty, administrators, parents. We wish he didn't have to leave.

Mr. Connors Reminisced About WHS...

"I'm not going to walk away from Wellesley High School, because I feel I'll see everyone again. I'm not going to say good-bye, just 'see you later.' " Mr. Connors' philosophy of his departure illustrated his fondness for Wellesley High. "I won't close Wellesley High off; I'll remember the good people doing things for other people. I'll look back and see this."

We looked back with him and recalled many incidents that added dimension to our principal's affable personality. One unforgettable occurrence imprinted in every student's mind was the 1980 racial incident. As Mr. Connors noted, "It was a small group of kids which developed into a racial incident. This disturbed me." It stunned and angered many, but Mr. Connors was a stabilizing, calming force in the midst of the aftermath. He helped the students sort out their feelings and determine why it happened. "Sometimes chemistry makes things come to a head. Hopefully you can quell it, but given chemistry, at times you can't contain it. The incident was unfortunate, but some will grow from it. Some won't, but they wouldn't have grown anyway."

Another incident by which we will remember Mr. Connors was his presence at the rally for the Athletic Director. Our principal couldn't take an active part, but when he was told the students wanted to strike, he advised us to hold a rally instead. He perceived it as an exhibit of the school's "cohesiveness." This event was "a positive endeavor for all. The kids were listened to by the town."

Renewal of our endangered accreditation and certification due to his efforts for the completed addition was a significant highlight of his five year tenure as our principal. "It was a team effort, with the cooperation of the teachers, the Steering Committee, parents and kids, as well as the administration. Together, all have helped set a course for the coming years, to help the town to see the possibility of our becoming a four-year high school in the next few years."

Mr. Connors carries multitudes of memories with him to Woonsocket. So many people in the school "impress me." "One young man who's a character in his own right will go out of his way to talk to those kids no one else talks to." He has grown close to co-workers and faculty members. "I hate to name any because I'd have to name them all." He will think of all the athletic events, such as "the effort of the soccer team," among others. One particular memory that lights his face with a grin was "the tennis ball incident last year. I wasn't prepared for such a large-scale battle! These are all events I'll recall and remember the school by."

Most of all, our principal will remember the total Welleseley High community. "I think by and large that there's a closeness between all of us, like a family. A healthy attitude makes the job enjoyable, and is a necessary ingredient in a successful school. Wellesley High, because of the student body and faculty, is a successful, healthy school." As he said, the affection between teachers, kids, and administration "Make it good."

Mr. Connors truly believes that "We can all learn from each other. I've learned a lot from kids and teachers. The strengths of people help us learn to overcome our weaknesses." He applied the philosophy to his behavior in a manner which has been apparent to all." Sometimes, if you stop to read people and notice their feelings, you can learn from that." Our principal is truly a natural leader, combining charisma, credibility, commitment, and caring in his work. His unique administration and dynamic personality will be warmly remembered by all of us who knew Timothy P. Connors.

We Wish Tim Success in His Future . . .

Faculty members feelings about Tim Connors' departure are ambiguous. George Kerivan, Sr. summed up everyone's reaction, "I have mixed feelings. On one hand, I'm sorry to see him go, but on the other hand, I'm very happy for him. I feel like a father who hates to see his son go off to college, but wishes him the best." So it is here at WHS, a family of students, faculty and administrators are torn between feelings of joy and grief.

"Those of us at WHS who have had the chance to become acquainted with Tim Connors have seen a combination of great human qualities plus tremendous administrative skills, resulting in a unique, sensitve man whose leadership has brought the faculty closer together." Dick Carbone, who has worked closely with Tim Connors, commented on his administrative qualities, "He's a very unique man because he's able to have the respect and admiration of both the faculty and student body. As an administrator, this combination is difficult to achieve, but Tim's tremendous enthusiasm and stamina has overcome such a barrier."

The past year has been a difficult time for the administration and the faculty. Proposition 2½ has forced Tim Connors to make difficult professional decisions, regardless of personal ties. Even so, Tim Connors has managed to maintain an optimistic attitude. Jim Sullivan, in the math department, elaborated on Tim's optimism. "He keeps up the faculty's spirits during such dividing times. He supports the staff without sacrificing quality of performance." In order to keep open the communication between administration and faculty, a balance of organization, sensitivity, and responsibility is needed. Tim Connors, as

In order to keep open the communication between administration and faculty, a balance of organization, sensitivity, and responsibility is needed. Tim Connors, as an administrator, has shown outstanding organizational skills. He is always readily available to listen to the problems of his faculty, and he utilizes his authority properly to attain the best solution to any problem. Brooks Goddard elaborated, "He's been a personable and skillful administrator. He's given us support through a difficult year which has in turn increased the faculty's awareness of its academic independence and integrity."

Tim Connors has an air of intuitive concern for others which helps him be aware of those members of the faculty and student body who may have a problem which needs to be discussed but who may not have confronted the principal. "He has a total commitment and passion for working with people." This statement by Gig Kerivan expressed clearly what many of us see in our principal. Tim Connors always finds the time to help a student or teacher in need, even with his hectic schedule. Both Jim Sullivan and Dick Carbone underscored that personable attribute found in Tim Connors... "He has a deep love for working with young... Tim thoroughly enjoys hearing the feelings and problems of the faculty and the students... he really likes people, particularly young people... he's not just going through the motions... he really cares."

In these tough times for education, the atmosphere between students and teachers can be strained with an air of tension, a kind of rebellion. Tim Connors helped to eliminate that tension by not only making himself visible about the school, but also with his optimistic attitude as he walked about the building and visited classrooms. Gig Kerivan has said, "His optimism is contagious. I can work closer to my potential because of Tim Connors' support and optimistic attitude." Linda Hadlock stated, "He's created an incredibly positive atmosphere. His concern for the needs of people and his involvement in school activities has made the faculty eager to participate and become a part of the school as opposed to a 'faculty' in a mandatory administration."

We'll all miss Tim Connors personally. His feelings for life and positive attitude has brought us all through hard times. Rocky Edwards perhaps prophesied the feelings of the faculty when he stated, "You never know how much you miss someone until they're gone." Dick Carbone expressed the feelings of our entire community toward our principal, "He is a unique, outstanding school leader whose loss will be felt by the students, the parents and the faculty."

Janice Barrett mused about his relationships with faculty members during his five

Janice Barrett mused about his relationships with faculty members during his five years at WHS, "He is an extraordinary human being; incredibly bright, compassionate, sensitive, with a wonderful warm sense of humor. We all respect his integrity and honesty; we all admire his dedication and enthusiasm. He is a good friend. We'll all miss Tim Connors' professional and personal concern for others, but we wish him every success in his future. Wellesley's loss is Woonsocket's gain."

School Committee and Central Office

Because of Proposition 2½, declining enrollment, and the need to find a new high school principal, the School Committee faced many hard decisions this year concerning the budget, reduction in teaching staff, personnel appointments, reorganization of curriculum and school closings.

As the school year ended, several significant changes had taken place: Brown and Perrin elementary schools had been closed; Dr. Bruno resigned over the selection of a new principal for WHS, and Susan Sellers from Reading was appointed principal.

Members of the Student Advisory Committee participated in many School Committee meetings concerning such issues as the principal selection process and formulation of the drug policy.

Help Can Come From Two Sources: Reading and Special Services

Over the last few years, the Reading Department has offered a specialized condensed reading couse which enables students to read more efficiently and prepare for college courses and SAT's. In addition to this speed reading course, the Reading dept. is designed to aid students with their reading skills to give them a better understanding of literature.

Associated with Reading is the Special Services Dept. which offers aid to those students with academic difficulties in the education system at the high school. Three teachers in these two dept. have recently received their M.S. in Special Education; Marjorie Miller, Mary Thompson, and Leo Carpenter.

English Reduces and Consolidates Electives for Upperclassmen

Janice Barrett and Gene Varley learn to operate the new compugraphics equipment involved in Journalism.

Due to the effects of budget cuts from Prop. 21/2, one and three-fifths English teaching positions were cut; several literature courses were eliminated from the elective program; several others were consolidated to create a narrower number of offerings. In addition to the literature courses, the department continues to emphasize its six basic skills and writing electives for the juniors and seniors in Phases II and III.

However, there were two complete new courses introduced into the English curriculum; English As a Secondary Language, taught by Mrs. Rosenfield, and Journalism, taught by Ms. Barreti. The Journalism course will be a year-long, interdisciplinary effort of the English, Industrial Arts and Business departments. Eventually, students will be able to produce and print all four school publications; The Wellesleyan, the Bradford, Melange, and the Journal page on the new Industrial Arts computer equipment.

The twofold goal of the English Department was stated by Acting Department Head, Brooks Goddard, "I hope for a future balance between skills and literature courses, in the hopes of bringing English, a living language, to life. Also, I wish for more evenly distributed class sized in order to permit a better understanding of the subject matter.'

Social Studies

The social studies team led by Mr. Marchant, is feeling the cutback effects of declining enrollments and Prop. 2½. The impact will be felt in the loss of a two-fifths teaching position, higher class sizes, some courses dropped and increased sections of those electives remaining in the program. "We have nothing new to offer in our department," said Mr. Marchant, "In fact, we may have to eliminate some courses, like Contemporary Affairs or Anthropology, if our enrollment declines further." Currently, 100% of the juniors are enrolled in American History, 44% of the sophomores and 46% of the seniors have elected Social Studies courses.

The wish of the Social Studies Department is to "preserve the quality of Wellesley's education."

Language Department Now Offers Three Exchange Programs; Germany, Martinique and Venezuela

This year the Foreign Language Department has welcomed a new faculty member, German teacher Mary Stueart, who is the coordinator of an additional exchange trip, to Germany. Although Germany may not have the tropical weather that has been associated with the traditional Foreign Language Exchanges to French speaking Martinque and Spanish-speaking Venezuela, Germany will be the first Euopean country with which W.H.S. has an exchange program. Now, students can visit foreign countries in all three language areas for exposure to the cultures they are studying in their courses.

However, exchanges are just part of the highlights of this department.

Our Language Laboratory and our highly excelled literature programs provide a variety of excellent learning experiences in this academic program. "I wish" said Mr. Caefer, "that all students become a proficient in a foreign language to enrich their lives."

Science Department Has Several Personnel Changes

Beakers, formaldehyde, dissections, and bunsen burners are synonymous with science, an integral part of Wellesley High's academic network.

The Science department has had several new faculty members, whose talents bolster efficiency. These members include Mr. Izzo who now teaches Chemistry and Physical Science; Miss Haas, who teaches Chemistry; and Mr. Bowman who has come from the Jr. High to teach Biology and Chemistry.

While the department gained three new teachers, it lost one, too. Biology teacher Mr. John Howard retired at the end of the year. 1981 marked his twenty-fifth year of teaching at the high school. An expression of appreciation and gratitude was extended to Mr. Howard by his department.

Wellesley High's science division keeps abreast of the latest innovations. The department members have several ideas which it would like to see put into use in regards to the manner of teaching in the classroom. They would like a greater usage of microcomputers in the classroom as well as a greater participation by students to enlarge their horizons with some form of a science background before leaving the high school.

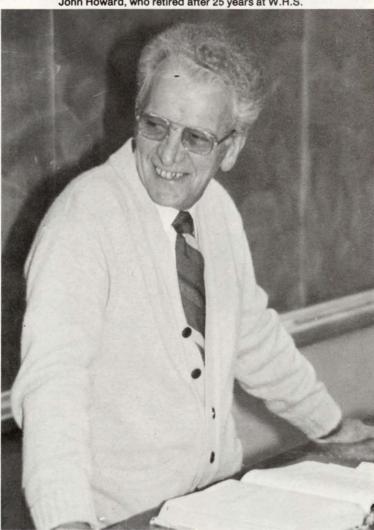

In addition to this wish, another wish expressed by the science department was one which was shared by many department heads: "I wish 21/2 would go

Math Has Added Mini-Computers and Courses to Train Students in High-Tech!

The Mini computers are here! Room 214A, on the second floor wing, has been converted into a Math Lab Resource room, a fulfillment of its long time dreams. The Math Lab has allowed students to experience "individualistic learning projects" through computer programming. The program varies from serious math learning situations to less academic programming (in the way of computer games such as space invaders.) "It allows a new and individualistic dimension to the subject of Math" stated one student.

The new diversity of math offerings will hopefully stimulate student interest in mathematics and related computer careers the fastest growing industry in Massachusetts. There is no shortage of jobs for anyone who wants to enter the high-tech field around Rte # 128

Newly Built Industrial Arts Addition Offers New Courses in Automotives, Graphics, Woodworking and Metal Shop

Have you visited the new Industrial Arts wing which opened this year? A brand new automotive shop, graphic arts area, woodworking and metal shops have been built. Students now have the opportunity to learn about the intricacies and mechanics involved in all these fields.

intricacies and mechanics involved in all these fields.

With the new courses in automotives, the department has taken Terry Veitch aboard, the coordinator and teacher of all automotive courses. There are new courses in electronics and graphic arts, as well as the leasing of the latest in typesetting equipment, a Compugraphics machine. Gene Varley is in charge of the operation of this machine which will be used in the Journalism course with credit in three departments: English, Business, and Industrial Arts. Even with Prop. 2½ the quality of courses and teachers has not been lost in this important department, which enables students to develop mechanical skills, machinery operations and vocational training.

"Home Economics" used to bring to mind images of cookbooks, aprons and sewing machines. But, there have been some changes. Over the past four years, the Home Economics Department has revised its curriculum. The emphasis is now placed on improving family life. The department, directed by Lynne Novogroski, accomplishes this by offering not only courses related to "stirring and stitching," but also Child Development and Interior Designs. The Child Study Lab celebrates is second successful year of teaching both high school students and pre-school children. The course combines academic ability with practical skills and invaluable first hand experience. In these Home Economics courses, there are three hundred fifty students enrolled, taught by Barbara DiGuiseppe and Ann O'Sullivan.

The wish for this department is that it become a graduation requirement to take a Home Economics course, particularly one dealing with parenting and family life.

Our Home Economics Department provides unique academic courses which guide students in making decisions and teach them necessary skills to be used later in life. It acts as a model around which students can shape their lives.

"Taking Care of Business"

"Get down to Business" Day Coffee Reception brought back even retired teachers Mrs. McGilvray and Mr. Crockett.

The Business Department has many new ideas and methods for the future. Next year a new course, in "Journalism Through Print Media," will be added to the curriculum. This new offering combines the Industrial Arts, English and Business departments. Mr. Varley, Mrs. Barrett, and Miss Hickey will pool their talents to teach the course, which utilize the new Compugraphics typing offset printing machine. "This electronic machine allows a greater flexibility in the arrangement of published material," said department head Mr. Robert Aldrich

Another of Mr. Aldrich's ideas for the department that he would like to see fulfilled in the future concerns equipment. By acquiring two complete word processing machines with the screens and line-printers the business department could "beef up word processing." This would be invaluable in typing and accounting instruction.

Mr. Aldrich's final thought is expressed in a wish for his department. He hopes that "every student who has gone through W.H.S. would, at some point in his or her career, be enrolled in social business or a skill offering."

Distributive Education

Leslie Trimble and Bob Larsen check the School Store records.

The Distributive Education program taught by Phil Connaty teaches the principles of retailing and merchandising. Every student involved in the program must, in addition to classroom experiences, work in a part-time retailing position around town. For example, several students who participate in this program are Jenny Ross who works at the natural food store, Bread and Circus, Tammy Barilom who presently works at Green's Stationary. In addition to these students who work in the community, several students involved in the store are Nancy Civetta and Diane Domouchel.

The Retail Laboratory, more commonly known as the School Store, in its third year now has a branch store at the Junior High School. The store provides the students involved with the actual experience of merchandising, record-keeping and advertising. Materials for school such as pens, pencils, notebooks and review texts are sold in addition to gum, mints and other snacks. The Store also engages in the sale of some novelty gifts, giving the students as buyers the opportunity to engage in the Distributive Education Program.

Work Study

Work Study is another program which enables students to learn important aspects of business. Approximately 35 students work at least 15 hours weekly after school and during free periods for local businesses. Rocky Edwards is the coordinator of this program, meeting individually on a weekly basis with the participants for progress reports. This offers students helpful business training to enter the world of work after graduation.

Art, Not Just a Palette at WHS

Traditionally, art is described in terms of a palette of paint and a drawing of a glorious sunset. But, at Wellesley High, art courses vary from Fashion Design to Dance and Theater to Photography. This variation gives the students of the school ample opportunity to find new releases of energy and imagination perhaps never considered before.

In addition to the established courses, several new courses have been incorporated into the arts program. With the return of Mrs. Stoddard from her sabbatical leave, the fashion design class resumed as well as the creation of a new course called Illustration and Cartooning. In the graphics division, there has been a new equipment addition. Apart from new courses, the art students have taken the initiative to organize a club which brings those people interested in art closer together. Such a club has been formed and completed its first full year. It is known as the National Art Honor Society. It holds monthly meetings after school bringing the talents of artists together.

Also the art department holds an Artist of the Month throughout the year which features a student involved in the arts. A display can be seen at the Town Hall as well as an article in the Townsman. Recently featured in the Townsman was the assistant layout editor, Joyce O'Connor.

The department has a new "pug mill" bought for the ceramics section of the department, giving the students a greater chance to use their creativity.

The theatrical courses offered by the department have grown increasingly popular, giving the public the opportunity to observe student talent in both the plays performed throughout the year as well as the dance concert productions. Some productions offered to the public this year were "Midsummer Night's Dream," a Shakespearean play, "Good News," this year's musical, and later this season the Drama Club will be involved in the Massachusetts State Drama Festival with their production of the play, "Scarecrow." The Moving Co. and various dance classes combined their talents to produce a dance show known as Dance Works.

The wish for the Art department was suggested by the department head, Mr. Anderson, as he stated, "I hope there will be further involvement in the arts by students, creating a more complete balance between the rigid academics and the creative art forms."

Music Groups and Programs Enliven Our Lives at WHS

Music is an important part of WHS, giving students the chance to perform and develop their musical talents while pursuing training for a possible future in music. There are student involved vocally in the choral groups as well as students involved in the instrumental program. In order to give the students the optimum atmosphere in which to work, the third floor music room has been completely renovated specifically for instrumental use, giving the musicians better acoustics in which to practice. The vocal portion of the program has two additions. First, Ms. Niese has come here from the Ir. High to coordinate the choral groups and secondly. Boom come here from the Jr. High to coordinate the choral groups and secondly, Room 214 has been designated entirely to the vocal courses in the music department.

Not every student who enjoys music wants to pursue a career in it. Therefore, the Guitar Workshop program enables guitar enthusiasts to play without pressuring them into future music professions.

Throughout the year, we've all enjoyed the variety of musical producations in concert and other numerous events.

Library Opened Doors to New Wing After Many Years of Waiting!

The long awaited opening of W.H.S. Library/Media Center became a reality in September of 1980. The new facility not only has the benefits of more storage room, a conference room, and space for video use, it is an efficient resource for both faculty and students. The new media center provides serious students with a quiet, scenic studying area; it also has an informal area for students to relax and chat quietly with friends.

Students stand in line every morning before 7:30 to await the library door's opening. Teachers and classes visit for library orientation, research projects and film of video tape viewing. For the first time here at W.H.S., we have modern, well-equipped facilities to help us with our studies. "Everyone agrees", stated senior Shirley Borghai, "It's the most pleasant and well equipped area in the entire building."

Physical Education Department Offers Co-Ed Elective Courses

The Physical Education department continued its strong co-educational program this year. The co-educational classes have created a certain atmosphere, allowing students to participate in a greater diversity of athletic games. Students feel not only a greater air of competition, but also cooperation in such activities as Badmitton, softball, and adventure are offered. Although for many, co-ed Physical Education has a strong advantages, such activities as aerobic dance and Yoga cater to a more single sex class, therefore allowing each individual his/her choice in fulfilling the state-mandated physical eduation requirement for graduation.

members elected at large to represent the faculty on issues affecting the entire school. Led by President Peter Haggerty and Vice President Bonnie Brown, the Senate achieved several important goals this year through their discussions and weekly meetings during F period on Tuesdays. They analyzed a wide variety of crucial issues and serious problems, such as RIF procedures. In their position papers and during their meetings with administrators, the Senate proposed various solutions on behalf of the faculty. They served as an important link between the Wellesley Teachers Association, and the Wellesley High and Junior High School faculties.

National Merit Scholars

Finalist Bow Van Riper was pleased with his placement among the National Merit Scholars.

The National Merit Scholarship Program is an annual competition in which secondary school students compete for recognition and college scholarships. These students are chosen initially on the basis of their PSAT/MMSQT scores. Students whose scores qualify are put into a pool of approximately 15,000 semifinalists. After having been interviewed, these students overall merits are again weighed so that a much smaller group of finalists may be chosen. These finalists are awarded cash prizes and scholarships so that they may further their education.

This year Wellesley High School had its greatest number of finalists ever. The senior class has 376 students; 12 were finalists. They are: Jenniffer Cabanniss, Rachel Glick, Margo Hobbs, Ann Morrison, Meghan O'Leary, John Porter, Ethan Shimony, Fran Swift, Felisa Tofias, Avery Tung, Bo Van Riper, and Tom Ward. It is through their hard work and determination that they have received those well deserved awards.

International Baccalaureate Program Expands

I.B. student, Jennifer O'Sullivan, president of NHS, speaks at the induction ceremony

I.B. Director Lynn Moore was granted a leave of the school committee to study in Switzerland during May and June.

I.B. stands for International Baccalaureate, but it could just as easily mean incredible Brainwork. The I.B. program demands just that from its students. As Mr. Connors explained, "The International Baccalaureate Program is most cohesive in terms of academic preparation. It's a very comprehensive system; one in which colleges are very interested. Miss Moore has done a lot of work."

Miss Moore, as the I.B. advisor, has helped the program take root in the Wellesley schools. She begins by explaining the program to the parents of sixth graders. This is followed by insuring necessary courses at the Junior High School level that will adequately prepare prospective I.B. students. "There will be at least ten I.B. students in each graduating class if she keeps working," stated Mr. Connors.

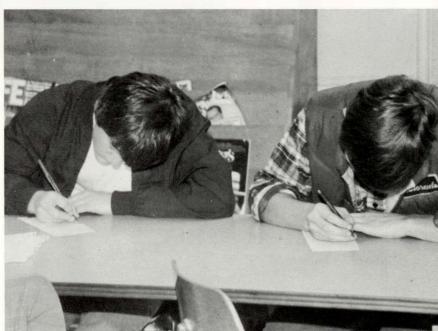

Mr. Connors went on to remark, "Wellesley High was one of the first schools in the country to institute the International Baccalaureate Program. The courses have always been here; it's just a matter of putting them together in a program.

The future of I.B. is a promising one. "I think it could grow, starting with faculty and students working together," Mr. Connors reasoned. "The program has the same potential growth as the Advanced Placement system." He sees a possible merging of the two demanding systesm.

One can only begin to appreciate the amount of concentration and effort that it demanded of the I.B. scholar. An illustration of the dedicated I.B. pupil can be found in Jennifer O'Sullivan. She is the only I.B. student in the class of 1981

Students work hard over their tests.

Competency Testing Required by State Board of Education

The competency testing program measures students' academic abilities by way of a standardized test. The tests are administered periodically in various grades. In this way, there is a guarantee that when kids are promoted to the next grade, they have developed and mastered certain fundamental skills; skills that are necessary for the grade

The testing is controversial, however. Parents of special needs students have felt that the special needs of their children are not being met. Thus, the state decreed that there must be a measurement of students' achievement. Competency testing fulfills this decree. But many parents are uneasy about the testing because some students just do not possess the required skills, and never will. This could prevent them from completing their schooling.

Students Experience Learning in a Variety of Independent Study Programs

"I hope that we can continue to have Independent Study, because Proposition 2½ puts it in jeopardy. We're definitely at a crossroads," stated Mr. Kerivan Jr., the Independent Study coordinator. It is a wish reflected by many.

The students involved in the Independent Study have taken advantage of the opportunities the program offers, such as being able to concentrate on subjects not in the high school's curriculum. Another offering of Independent Study is first hand experience. Kids "work in the real world, thus they are given the chance to see what it's like," Mr. Keriyan said.

Independent Study really has two divisions. One is "Independent Study," in which participants pursue their interests on a part-time basis, about ten to twelve hours each week. About seventy-five students are involved. Some are Big Brothers or Sisters. Others spend time working at Wellesley's Learning Center. Senior Anne Idzal chose to work on the Solar Greenhouse project, an investigation into the feasibility and cost of a school greenhouse. As she said, "Independent Study is a fantastic learning experience, unlike any other obtained through a textbook or classroom atmosphere."

The other half of the Independent Study program is Senior Internship. Offered only to seniors, it affords them the chance to pursue their interests fulltime, as an alternate second semester. Anne Gerald is teaching science to elementary school children. Her view of the program relates its worth. "It allows me a chance to act on my own, out of the school system. Now I will learn to face the world on my own, to gain more independence along with responsibility."

A Better Chance, or more commonly known as ABC, is a non-profit organization which enables high school students from educationally disadvantaged backgrounds to study and pursue their academic goals at one of the leading high schools in the country. Once having been interviewed and tested in their freshman year in high school, the candidates are selected and placed in Wellesley, one of several ABC chapters throughout the country.

In its ninth year, the Wellesley Chapter of ABC hosted six girls from around the country. They were Soraya Mercado of Manhatten, New York; Denise Smith of Cleveland, Ohio; Reva Hoosier of Columbus, Ohio; Maria DeJesus of Bronx, New York; Robin Bryant of Trenton, New Jersey; and Dawne Simon of Queens, New York. The girls reside at 12 Norfolk Terrace and live with a fulltime tutor, Anita Sandy, and a resident couple, Paul and Tracey Robinson. The girls share home living responsibilities and participate fulltime in the Wellesley Public School System. In addition, each girl is provided with a host family from the community.

Vocational Technical School

The Regional Vocational Technical School, commonly known as Voc Tech, offers students a unique opportunity to learn the fundamentals of a career while they continue their academic program at the high school. The students involved in this program go to classes for half of the school day, being transported to the vocational technical school located in South Natick. While at the school in South Natick, students can participate in learning such trades as: heating, venting and air conditioning, landscaping, carpentry, electronics, and painting and decorating. Such a program gives the student a sense of responsibility, dedication to a craft, and a chance to gain technical skills while at the same time, achieving the credits necessary to graduate from the high school.

The building itself is located in Newton, but counselors like Wellesley's Larry Weissman are mobile, moving around the schools. Larry Weissman works primarily at the Jr. High, but occasionally is found here at the High

Partners Across the Generations

Students at WHS and elderly Wellesley residents this year participated in a year long arts project, "Partners Across the Generations," created by David Ender, a '77 WHS graduate, for his senior degree project at Massachusetts College of Art.

Mr. David Ender sought, as a thesis project, to have students and older persons share in an inter-generational experience, gaining knowledge of each other through communication in a positive exchange of ideas. The high school student participants were in Mrs. Rosenfields two sophomore English classes and her junior and senior Creative Writing course.

The participating students, who were an enthusiastic and attentive audience, developed poems, short stories, prose pieces, photography, slides, tapes, dances, and films inspired by the visitors to commemorate the Wellesley Centennial and its theme in the endeavor of "Partnership, Wellesley 1981."

Three out of the sixty-seven WHS participants, Nick D'Angelo, Sonna Wellington, and Suzanne McMillian were only a few of the many seniors who devoted time to make this program a success.

The six educators from the community who came to share their knowledge and experiences in a series of recitations were:

William Dole — newspaper publisher.

William Chace Green — Prof. Emeritus of M.T.T.

Janet Hugenberger — member of Wellesley Society of Artists.

Laura Jack — Wellesley historian.

Therese Rolland Zukich — poet, historian.

Charles Thomas — President of Wellesley Historical Society.

"Partners Across the Generations" linked WHS on the community, state, and national levels: through the Wellesley Centennial Committee, the Massachusetts College of Art, the Massachusetts Governor's Advisory Committee for Children and the Family, the Wellesley Council on Aging, The Retired Senior Volunteer Program, and The National Endowment for the Humanities and the Arts.

Nick D'Angelo's poetry and that of Therese Rolland Zukich bring to life the purpose of the program.

The Wellesley Community Center was the location for a day-long presentation, which included a luncheon for the speakers and the senior citizens of Wellesley. The entertainment was provided by WHS students who were members of the Moving Co. the high school dance group directed by faculty member Ms. Francie Josephs and the Rainbow Troupe, directed by Nazaleen Walker.

The students who participated in this project recount it as a memorable learning experience which helped to transcend the stereotypes of each age group and it created an understanding spirit of empathy and respect.

A document describing the project is on file in Washington, D.C. in the National Endowments for the Humanities and Arts Archives.

The earth travels round the sun. The seasons blend as one. The hands of time spin ever faster.

She is old, her hair gray, her body tired. Her hands wrinkled, withered, calloused. She kneels and prays bringing to mind those painful days. The death of her husband, the bills left unpaid, She was forced to live the life of a slave. She had no choice with five to raise. Even now she feels the pain, It's an endless tear she wipes away. Her hands still bleed, bear the stain, telling only a fragment of the story contained.

She invites me to come, to stay. I apologize in a polite way, there are simply not enough hours in the day. "You know?" she says.

Faculty and academics brings to mind one subject: homework. It's a fact of life-a way of life-for Wellesley High students. Whether it be compositions, tests, trigonometric functions, lab reports, or typed termpapers, every student received his share of assignments.

What would we have done without music? It hyped us up, mellowed us out, kept us awake, or lulled us off to slumber. Most importantly, that radio, cassette deck, or stereo made the drudgery of homework a little more bearable. We got by with a little help from our friends.

The Centennial Class of '81 Made Their Wishes . . .

As our school year and Wellesley's 100th birthday approaches its end, we seniors experience a wide range of new concerns, worries, and excitement. We realize entering new stages in our lives means we must assume a greater independence, with increased expectations based on our dreams for our futures.

Most of us wish for immediate success in college and long-term success in our career pursuits. All of us will seek accomplishments, pleasure, friendships, and personal rewards in our lives.

At this point in our lives, we discover that marriage and having families will come much sooner than we previously perceived. So, it's pleasant to wish for happiness and fulfillment in choosing our spouses and rearing our children.

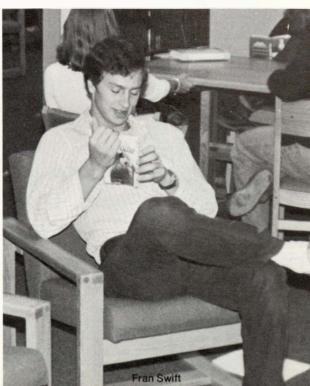

Each of us is unique, so we all have different aspirations. However, we all do find that in preparing for the future and delving into the unknown, we have many of the same basic wishes in common. At this youthful point in life, we hope to have undying idealism, tempered realism, and good fortune that will allow us to pursue our wishes successfully.

The Journal and Melange

The staffs of both the Melange and Journal once again turned out fine productions. The fine arts book that is put out every year is a compiling of all of the finest creative pieces students have to offer. It contains many works of art and drawings, in addition to the many fine stories and poems that are also put into the book.

stories and poems that are also put into the book.

The Journal page is the high school's monthly Forum page in the Townsman. The editors produced an edition each month during the school year that contained news stories, poems, and art, editorials, interviews, artwork and photographs. It was truly a great year for both of our high school publications.

The Bradford

This year's Bradford for the first time was not entirely in debt. Mr. Art Hall of the Business Dept. was appointed financial advisor. The student run newspaper under the direction of Lisa Tofias and Andy Schultz, reached its high point this year. These two editors were replaced at midyear by juniors Monica Woods and Janet Morgan Thaler. This year's production of The Bradford can once again be deemed a success, as the paper placed second in the newspaper competition at Columbia University.

Drama Club

Once again the drama club had a bountiful year. They enjoyed putting on many productions and participating in the state wide contest for one act plays. The productions included "A MidSummer Night's Dream" and "The Scarecrow." It was truly one of the best drama seasons that the club has ever enjoyed.

Moving Company

This year's moving company was one of the finest ever. They staged several shows throughout the year and all were enjoyable. The finest show was the one for the Centennial party held at the high school where they danced to the music that was a part of the town's history. The dance troupe at this high school really knows how to move!

Lyrics

This year, the Lyrics, under the direction of Mr. Sullivan, gave many memorable concerts. This Group comprised of select singers, performed at many different activities such as Academic Awards And The Birthday Bash. These singers with their spectacular voices, delighted students, teachers and parents as they brought harmony to Wellesley.

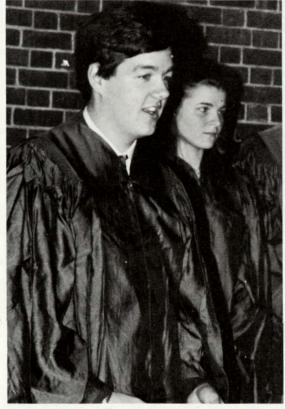

"Happy times are here again . . ."

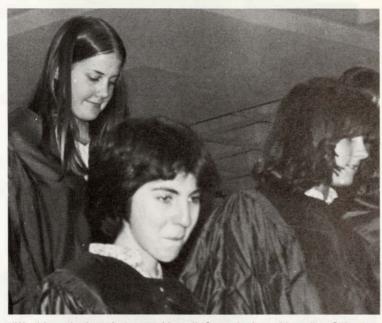

"Do you girls ever take a break?".

National Honor Society

This year's National Honor Society was to say the least, very active, led by officers Jennifer O'Sullivan, Ethan Shimony, Cindy Peterson along with advisor Mr. Espisito. The purpose of these events was to raise money for a scholarship and to carry on the tutoring service for other students. These two major goals of the National Honor Society were reached very easily and the year can easily be deemed a success.

"I'd just like to say that, well, isn't this fun." (Bo VanRiper)

"Would you look at that ragged hem." (Stacy Andrew, Maryellen Gilfeather, Rachel Gluck)

"Cindy prays for the everlasting society." (Cindy Peterson)

Mr. Connors addressed the crowd.

German Club Has Successful First Year

Katie Steinmetz, Rebecca Felton, Liegh Bolles, Meg Lysaught, Ms. Stueart, Chris Murray, Brian McCawley, Vin Rago, Wyman Briggs, Rolf Briggs, Russel Whittle, Scott Sheriden, Inge Olsen.

This year marked the beginning of a brand new club, the German club. Although it was only its first year, the German club was very active. It raised funds on many occasions by staging bake sales and other fundraisers. They held numerous parties somewhat akin to those associated with the other language clubs. The highpoint of the year was an exchange trip that was held with a high school in Germany. Five students from Germany came in late April and stayed for two weeks.

Heidi McDonald, David Dummes, Kate Jones, Kim O'Sullivan, Janelle York, Mimi Wade, Natalie Coleman, Andy Schultz, Betsy Reed, Tom Ramsey, Bill Kaplan, Julia Sater, Pablo Brown, Cindy Morris, Reva Hoosier, Maria DeJesus, Dawne Simon, Aurora Mato, Soraya Mercado, Lisa Marshall

El Club Español

Once again, the Spanish club enjoyed a terrific year. They held many parties and fundraisers and all were suc-cessful. The highlight of this clubs year was the annual exchange trip which went to Venezuela. A gracious welcome and warm greetings were what awaited the 14 high school students and group leader Mrs. Grodberg upon their arrival in Venezuela. The Wellesley students spent three weeks in the homes of their hosts and touring the country. They traveled to see major industrial factories and natural wonders, such as the worlds highest waterfall. All in all it was just a super trip and year for the Spanish Club.

Language Clubs

Latin Club

Under the auspicious direction of that wonderful person better known as Mr. Espisito, the Latin club once again thrived. This year, as usual, the Latin Club held several fundraisers. The club included in their schedule their traditional interclub volleyball game and they sponsored Latin readings for the club.

The JOHAN THE HOURS

French Club

The French club enjoyed another year of cultural and entertaining activities with Mrs. Avots as the advisor the club engaged in such events as French dinners, and parties and, to add a bit of culture, they learned various French games. This year the French club once again staged its Martinique exchange trip. The trip that the students overtook brought them to the beautiful Island of Martinique where they saw many of the interesting cultural and natural sights.

Key Club

Under the guidance of advisor Mr. Campbell, the Key Club completed another successful year of service to the student body and the Wellesley community.

Members of the Key Club participated in such projects as transporting the elderly to the Veterans Day parade, Bloodmobiles, concessions, and auctions. Earnings from these and other activities went to charity.

The highlight of the year was the club's spring trip to Cape Cod where fun times were had by all.

Chess Club

The Wellesley High School Chess Club participated in interscholastic and intrascholastic chess competition. The Chess Club competed in the Central Mass. and Middlesex Chess League, which consists of 28 schools in eastern and central Mass. Individual members of the Chess Club also played in many chess tournaments. The highlight of the chess season was when the club won the Middlesex League championship. The 1980-81 Chess Club members are: John Lockhart, Doug Helber, Keith Noyes, David Mckee, George Patterson, Bob Gross.

Debate Team Wins Massachusetts State Forensic League Championship!

The Wellesley High Debate Team won the 1981 Massachusetts State Debate Championship. At the Massachusetts Forensic League State Tournament in April, Wellesley debaters were named top Varsity team. This is the first time Wellesley has earned this honor.

Individual members were cited for their achievements: Betsy Reed was named best speaker in the Intermediate division and Jenny O'Connor placed sixth in competition.

The Debate Team also won a total of twelve other awards during the season. Debators discussed the issues of consumer protection at many of the tournaments. The team attended competitions at many local high schools including Manchester, Lexington, and New Bedford. Many team members also competed at tournaments on the Suffolk, U. Mass. of Amherst and Harvard campuses.

Under the direction of coach Mrs. O'Connor the team competed in Student Congress.

Betsy Reed and Jenny O'Connor won the District Finals. This enabled them to attend the national competition in New York in May.

In late spring, the team sponsored an Irish Folk Concert. This profitable fundraiser will allow the team to be self-supporting.

Sitting: (I to r) Joe Quinan, Jenny O'Connor, Debbie Weil (President), Betsy Reed. Standing: Ward Reed (Secretary), Bill Kaplan, Tom Ramsey, Jeff Levy. Missing: Brian Cluggish and Tom Kaplan.

Happy 100th Birthday, Wellesley!!!

On Monday, April 6, the student body of the high school had a chance to participate in the celebration of the town of Wellesley's One Hundredth Birthday. The commemorative program of speakers, music, and dance began at the start of school with the appearance of guest speaker, Harvard professor, John Galbraith, who lectured on the subject of economics.

A huge centennial birthday cake baked by students for the guest speakers was served up and enjoyed by all. The entire program concluded with a centennial costume contest in the cafeteria, featuring students dressed up in antique style clothing.

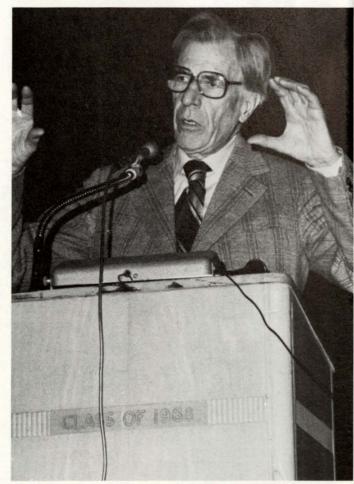

There was a total of ten seminars during the day, covering many different aspects of the town's history. The topics ranged from talks on the town's early origins to a discussion on the centennial time capsule. The day was truly a success and will be one that will be remembered for a long while.

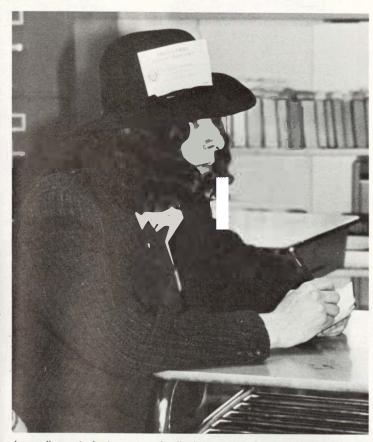

We all enjoyed the birthday cake baked by students from the Voc Tech School.

Even teachers dressed in costumes! "Hi, I'm Mrs. Plati and I've lost my sheep." (Mrs. Plati)

"From my standpoint, I'd say this country is intelligent." John K. Galbraith featured speaker.

Halloween Party

Halloween was a highlight of the fall of 1980. The halloween party was organized by Mr. Murphy and the senior class officers. Painted faces, fortunes and the Key Club's Haunted House were all a part of the fun. A great time was had by all, especially the elementary school students who came to join in the fun.

Cotillion

This year, the Christmas Cotillion was a great success. Romance filled the air as members from all the classes danced the night away to the music of a rock and a jazz band. This year's cotillion proved to be one of the best ever as more than 300 people showed up and had the time of their lives. It was truly an evening to remember.

Club'81

Once again Club 81 was a huge success. Due mainly to the efforts of the class officers and Mr. Murphy, approximately 200 people had a super time. The evening was highlighted by The band Black Ice and more of Lori Sluyter's dulcet tones. The theme of this year's dance was "Strawberry Fields" and all the participants dined and danced in the fields and in the Octupus's Garden. Club 81 truly remains one of the finer spring festivals.

Rallies

What is more exciting than a nonvictorious football game, louder than the husky voiced cheerleaders and more obnoxious than the band? The answer is the fall rallies. Skits which were provided by all the classes and the Key Club were fantastic and gave everyone a good laugh. The rallies truly showed the amount of school spirit that exists in the high school.

"Take the sum of their numbers and divide by 799.6 and you have their average I.Q."

"You know folks, you really shouldn't believe everything people say about Gina." (Gina Lionette, Tony Kingsley)

"Oh solo mio . . ." (Mr. Vasaturo)

"Good News"

This year's musical "Good News" was as successful as its name implies. Under the auspicious direction of Mr. Sullivan, Mr. Davis and Miss Gniadek, the play was tremendously well received.

This particular musical had six leads which were admirably portrayed by Meg Foley, Chris Willard, Scott Herlihy, Joe Nickerson, Karen Vesper and Eric Hershenson. The excellence of the supporting cast also led itself to this very fine production, which was enjoyed by all.

"Singing away their love." (Maria Rodis, Joe Nickerson)

"You know you want it." (Eric Hershenson, Karen Vesper)

Variety Show

Once again the Variety Show was an enormous success. This year's show was highlighted by the talents of the Weekend Update news team and the singing of Lori Sluyter. In addition to these acts there was a performance by the band Black Ice and the annual Calendar Girls and Guys. As usual the show proved to be an exciting evening of high school talent.

"I'm this many years old" (Paula Aylward, Dan Ide)

"Someone already cleaned off all the germs and bubble gum Lori." (Lori Sluyter)

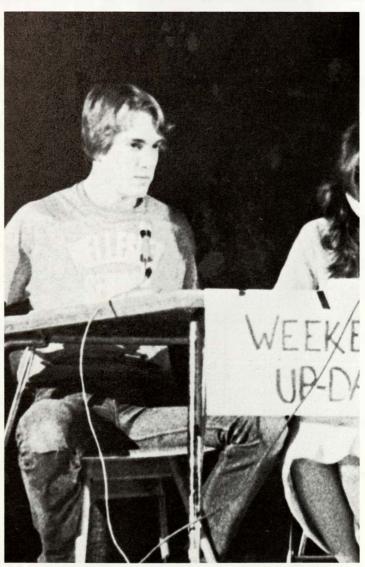

"Point those fingers, gang."

"YIPPEE AY YEA COWBOY" (Cathy Allman)

"What do the cue cards say, Tony?" (Tony Kingsley, Gina Lionette)

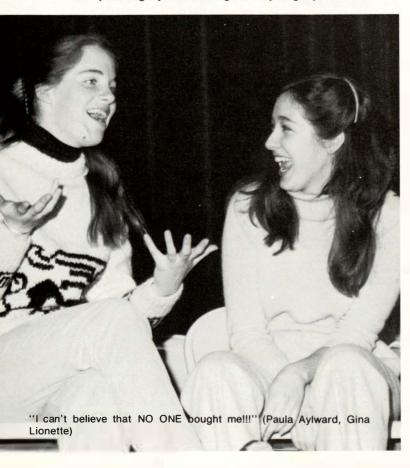

"Sing it to us." (Megan Scobie, Maureen Murphy)

Slave Day

This year, the senior class decided to put a new twist on fundraising, instead of having lots of bake sales seniors were auctioned off as slaves to the highest bidder. This type of fundraising proved to be quite successful as more than 300 dollars were raised by the senior class. The fabulous Mr. Murphy was the M.C. who successfully peddled a great deal of sweet senior flesh, for this event.

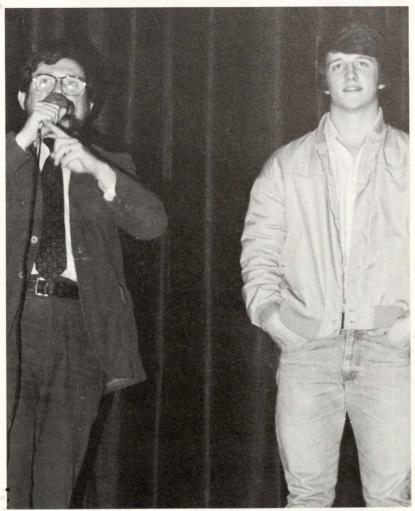

"You've just bought yourself a bargain, Tony Kingsley, for 37¢."

"I refuse to do windows." (G. T. Wright)

"Come 'on everybody we know he thinks he's G.I.B. Let him prove it." (Mr. Murphy, Dan McGreevy)

Soccer Team State Champions!

The 1980 Red Raider soccer team culminated a strong third place finish in the Bay State League with a Division I State Championship. Under the guidance of first-year coach Peter Loiter, they won the first soccer championship in the school's history.

The strength of the team throughout the injury-plagued season were the defensive and midfield corps, who held the opposition scoreless in twelve league games. Outstanding halfbacks were Co-Captain Mark Sullivan, Mark Morris, Tom Grome, and Dave Rotman, while Mike Eld, Rob Malster, and Eliot Putnam led the defense.

The team also received an excellent effort from the forwards, who outscored opponents almost 4 to 1. The goals were produced by high-scoring Ryan Falvey, Sean Fagan, and the team's leading scorer, Co-Captain Guido Verdelli.

Based on the strong record of 13-2-3, the Raiders received an invitation to the State Tournament. With the injuries healing and the confidence building, the Red Raiders won their first two games versus New Bedford and Brookline. The school and local soccer fans brought the enthusiasm, and the team defeated archival Needham in a classic played at Boston University's Nickerson Field. Then, in a six-overtime match against Braintree, Wellesley advanced to the semi-finals. In unprecedented drama, the Raiders beat both of their league rivals, and were making their dreams come true.

After defeating Doherty High School, the Raiders entered the finals against Billerica. Finally after five overtimes, Sean Fagan scored off a Verdelli rebound to end the incredible contest. The wish of the Wellesley Red Raiders had become a reality! They were the State Champs.

Guido Verdelli and Mark Morris received the distinction of being Globe Allstars and Mark Sullivan joined those two on the Bay State League All-Star team. Coach Loiter was chosen as Globe Coach of the Year.

Girls' Soccer Captured Third Consecutive Bay State Title!

The Wellesley girls' soccer team continued in its winning ways this year by capturing its third consecutive Bay State League championship with an impressive 11-1 record. Led by second-year coach Richard Heller, assisted by Kurt Fraylick and tri-captalns Donna Bibbo, Alicia Carrillo, and Kim Miller, the team was among the top squads in eastern Massachusetts.

The high degree of success can be attributed to great depth as the team outscored its opponents by a 35-4 margin despite numerous injuries throughout the season. It was a team which was noted for its emotion and character. Perhaps most notable was the 2-0 shutout of the Needham Rockets away from home to clinch the league title.

Despite being third seeded in state tournament and coming off an impressive 2-0 victory in the first round of the tourney, the Raiders were unfortunately paired against the defending state champion Concord-Carlisle squad in the quarter-finals. They finished the game on the short end of a 3-1 score. Concord-Carlisle went on to repeat as champions, holding its future opposition scoreless.

Following the season, special honors came to team members. Donna Bibbo and Alicia Carrillo repeated as Bay State All-Stars, joined by Ellen McHugh and Katrina Sorenson. In addition, Alicia was accorded recognition as Boston Globe "Player of the Year," in addition to first team All-Scholastic selection, while Donna Bibbo was a second team Globe All-Scholastic selection.

Despite the loss of nine outstanding senior performers, the future looks bright for Wellesley girls' soccer. A large number of skilled performers will be returning and added help will be supplied from this past year's successful J.V. and Junior High School teams.

I think I'm turning Japanese. (Donna Bibbo)

Football Has Disheartening Season

As the Red Raider football team marched onto the field each Saturday this fall, every player had just one wish in mind. That wish was to win a game. However, that wish did not become a reality, and through the long season, the team compiled a disappointing 0-9-1 record.

Lack of size and experience were the main contributors to the Raiders' demise. With only nine seniors on the squad, many juniors and sophomores were forced to fill unoccupied positions, and the teams in the tough Bay State League took advantage of this.

Although as a whole the team was not successful there were many fine individual performances. Five players, Tom Ward, Marty Ferguson, Jack McIntyre, Brian Gibson, and Kevin Sullivan, were recognized as Bay State League AII-State Honorable Mentions. Other stalwarts on the team were Todd LeBleu and Brad Christensen.

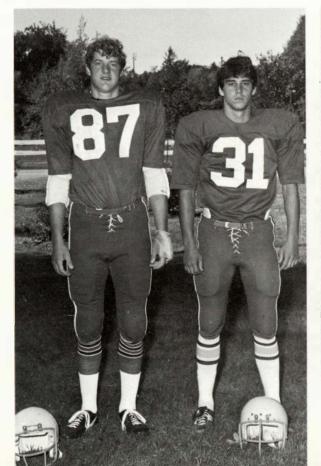

The coaching staff looks for a much improved squad next year because of the strong returning underclassmen.

Golf Team Swings to Success!

The wish of the Wellesley High golf team as they went into their last match against Needham with just one loss was to defeat the perennial rival. Although the Raiders then lost to Needham, their 7-2 record was good enough to qualify for the State Tournament. Captain Ed Vahey led the team with his steady play, and Todd Kolb, Dan McGreevy, and Scott Armstrong provided the solid base upon which veteran coach Charlie Burgess carved the winning season. Returning to the team next year will be sophomore sensation Ted Courville.

Disco Eddy does it with class. (Ed Vahey)

Runners Compile a Perfect Record of All Wins!

The Wellesley cross country team was one of the best representatives of the fall season, with a flawless record of 9-0.

Led by Coach Will St. Cyr and Co-Captains Rob Lowell and Andy Van Praagh, the team simply had an incredible season. The closest score of the fall found Wellesley a victor over Braintree by eleven points, while the greatest difference was a thirty-five point spread over both Framingham South and Norwood. Wellesley outscored its Bay State opponents by a 3 to 1 ratio.

By far, these runners gave the most impeccable regular-season performance of all the Wellesley fall teams. They earned a well-deserved reward for their hard work — a second place finish in the Division II State Competition. Steve Darwin, one of the many up-and-coming sophomores, received special recognition by individually placing fifth in the Division II State Championships.

Although four talented seniors won't be returning next year, the future looks quite optimistic for this bright, young team.

Field Hockey Gives It Their All

At the season's halfway mark, with a record of 3-3-3, co-captain Jennifer O'Sullivan spoke at a school rally, "We've tried wins, losses and ties. We've decided we like wins the best!" Unfortunately, fate had the Wellesley field hockey team pitted against some tough opponents.

Immediately following the rally, the girls suffered a 1-0 loss to our Natick rivals, whom the girls had earlier defeated by a score of 2-1.

Some highlights in the girls' 1980 season came during the second half in rematch games against Framingham North and Dedham. The premiere matches found the teams to be equally skilled, 2-2 and 0-0 respectively. However, later in the fall, the girls of Wellesley excelled, tallying victorious scores of 2-0 and 4-2 over these two teams; Dedham being a school that always seems to give Wellesley trouble.

Following the season, Junior Jen Elms was chosen for the Globe All-Star team, while Senior Dianne Silcott played All-Star field hockey.

Many of the strong team members will be returning next year, along with new blood supplied from the J.V. team. The girls are looking for a more prosperous 1981.

Girls' Volleyball Had Tough Season

The girls' volleyball team had a tough fall due to a lack of recruiting. Led by co-captains Cheryl Cook and Vicky Noble, the team suffered a disappointing 3-15 season.

For most of the girls 1980 was a rookie season, as many of the players were sophomores and juniors, with the exception of three seniors.

A pleasant note for the girls is that all three victories came on shutouts against Milton (2) and Walpole. Co-captain Cheryl Cook received post-season honors by being elected the team's Most Valuable Player, and acquiring a place on the Globe's All-Star team.

With the return of many underclassmen now experienced from this season's play, the outlook should be much brighter for 1981 volleyball.

The Wellesley High Varsity Hockey Team skated to an impressive 11-6-1 record this year, their first winning record in over ten years. Coach Andrew Levin accomplished this in only his first year at the varsity level.

Levin emphasized attitude, desire, and hard work, and turned from a 3-5-1 first half record to a 8-1-0 record over the second half of the season. Co-Captain Ed Vahey led the scoring attack, along with Terry Gorman, John Derderian, Scott Campbell and Rick Nickeson. On defense, Co-Captain Jon Anastos, Mike LaBruzzo, Sean Fagan and Brad Christenson protected the superb goaltending of Dana Golden. Golden kept Wellesley in every game, and often was the key to the game.

Wellesley will lose only four players to graduation next year, and looks forward to another strong season.

Girls' Swimming

The Wellesley girls' swimteam had another solid season, finishing with a 4-3 record under the strong guidance of second-year coach, Rick Echlov. The team began the season on a frustrating note, dropping its first meet to a tough Framingham North team by a mere ten points. However, the girls bounced back to soundly defeat their next four opponents in Framingham South, Norwood Natick and Wayland.

The turning point of the season occurred when the Raiderettes suffered a difficult loss to Dedham, again by a slim ten-point deficit.

However, the season ended on a pleasant note, as eight Wellesley swimmers were chosen to compete in the Eastern State Sectionals at Brockton. Those girls were Cathy Alman, Mary Stuart, Cheryle Windle, Anne Kimball, Connie Jones, Taffy Zimbler, and divers, Kim Paul and Janet Reagan. Competing in the State Championships at Boston College were Connie Jones, Anne Kimball, Taffy Zimbler, Cathy Alman, Mary Stuart, and Kim Paul. Postseason honors as Boston Globe All-Stars were also received by Alman, Jones, Stuart, Paul, and Zimbler.

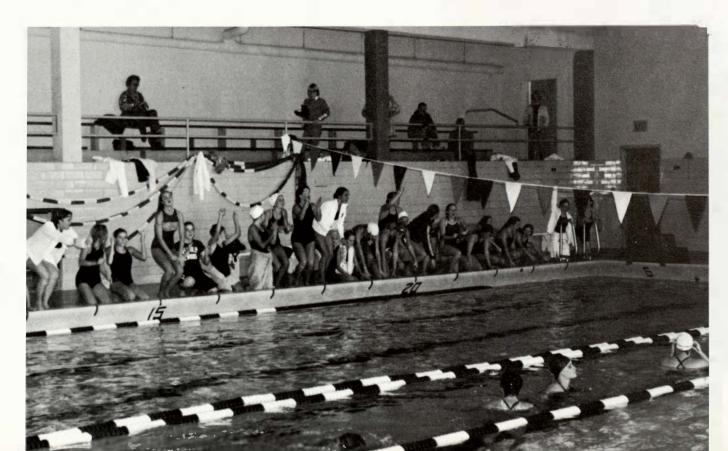

The team was described by captains, Mary Stuart and Cheryle Windle, as having many strong and talented underclassmen, who should help to boost the Raiderettes' standings in the league next year.

Boys' Swimming

Wellesley is in the lead?

Faced with the challenge of a new coach, Rich Echlov, and another season, the Wellesley Boy's Varsity Swim Team placed fourth in the Bay State league this year. With the help of cocaptains Chris Carlson and Craig Charlton the team retained high spirits throughout their season. The highlight of the season sparked approximately at the last meet, the New England Invitational, when Dean Mastras, Robert Grant, Craig Charlton and Chris Carlson broke the high school's 200 yd. medley relay record with a time of 1:48.5. Other strong competitors this year were first year diver, David Dunklee, Tom Fontaine, Mark Dacey, and Steven Fomtaine.

Boys' Basketball

Ironically, the best game of the season for the Red Raider basketball team turned out to be the beginning of a drastic slide. Wellesley battled Framingham South in a superbly played game, but finally lost to the Bay State League champs by three points. After that loss, the squad couldn't seem to pull itself together, and lost in six of their last eight outings.

On the season, Tom Ward led the team in scoring, netting 15 points per game, and playing in the Bay State League All-Star game. However, much of the team's success was due to the deft passing of Steve Silcott and Mike "The Fiddler" Tucker. Todd Kolb used his jumping ability to sky for rebounds in many key situations, and Fran Swift contributed a spark to the defense. Todd LeBleu, Barry Davis, and Lee Rohde all supplied strength from the bench.

Coach Jim Sullivan and Asst. Coach Peter Loiter look forward to next year, although none of the starting five will return.

Girls' Basketball Has Peaks and Valleys

The 1980-81 Red Raider Girls' Basketball season, although not a large success in games won and lost, did provide many thrills as they demonstrated a tenacious defense and a more balanced point production than in previous years. Unfortunately, a lack of consistency proved to be the demise of what was projected to be a top team in the competitive and well-balanced Bay State League. Co-Captain Donna Bibbo, in addition to leading the team in scoring from her guard position, lead the team in assists for her third straight year, and was honored as a unanimous selection by the Bay State coaches as an All-Star participant for the season. Co-Captain Dianne Silcott was a top performer throughout the season and led the team in rebounds.

Seniors Kim Walker, Brenda Capobianco, Laura Murphy, and Karen Hayde all made their presence felt as did Juniors Debbie Read and Sandy Clancy. Lauren Miklavic was among the top sophomores in the Bay State League, distinguishing herself as a scorer and rebounder. Liz Palmer and Kathy O'Brien both showed promise for the future in their sophomore baptism.

Wellesley will miss the girls who wore the numbers 4, 12, 21, 30, 32, and 33. However, they have left a legacy of team concept basketball, unselfish play, and one for all which should become contagious and result in future Wellesley success.

Wrestling

The wrestling team of 1980-81, vivaciously coached by Paul Donovan and Joe Resmini, had a solid season, showing great promise for the near future. Led by co-captains, Dave Silverstein and Greg Quinan, the "matmen" began the season looking quite impressive. However, the middle of the winter harbored a few tough defeats, beginning with a loss to monstrous Norwood, 4-56. More rough competition followed this meet with losses to Framingham North, Dedham, and Braintree. After this small slump, it was all uphill for the Wellesley wrestlers. They finished the season with five straight victories, one of which came against Wellesley's long-time rival, Needham, 36-27. Postseason honors to Mike Rodgers, who placed first in the Division I Sectionals (170-lb.) Five Wellesley wrestlers qualified for the State Tournament: Bob Doherty, Tom Paltrineri, Andrew Morgan, Chris Reggio, and Mike Rodgers. Special recognition should be given to WHS custodian, Jerry Novicki, whose support was ever-present and greatly appreciated.

Indoor Trackies Show Future Promise

The Wellesley High Indoor Track Team, although finishing with just one win in seven attempts, distinguished itself with outstanding individual efforts and was applauded by its opposition for providing quality competition at the Boston University track facility, which housed the Bay State League meets. Under Coach Ralph Bowman, the 1980-81 Bay State League entry from Wellesley won its first indoor meet in three years and was a threat in most of its other contests. Despite an injury in the beginning of the season, Senior Tony Kingsley established a new indoor record for the school in the high jump with a leap of 6'2". He later picked up valuable points with a third place finish in the State Meet. Co-Captain Arthur Brown was a steady performer in the shot put and Co-Captain Rob Lowell, despite being under par physically, provided spirited leadership.

Among the female set, Cindy Kerwin showed great promise with an eighth place finish in the State Meet and Holly O'Neil made her presence felt as a consistent performer in the mile.

All in all with some outstanding talent scheduled to return and the hopeful discovery of a super-jet 50-yard dash performer, the 1981-82 season should be a banner year for the Wellesley indoor trackies.

Skiers Saw Little Snow

Due to another winter of minimal snowfall both the Nordic and Alpine ski teams spent much of the Three months training for a rather frustrating season. Both teams did have a chance to actually compete this year. The Nordic team placed second in the Mass Bay league with exceptional performances by tricaptain Inge Olson, who was Outstanding Skier of the league, tricaptain Chris Mason, and Wyman Briggs. The dedicated Alpine team struggled on the icy slopes where tri-captain Nathalie Kettendorf, super star Erin Hourihan and Ces Cecchin brought in points. Under the guidance of coach Gig Kerivan Jr. the squad never gave hope for snow and a satisfying season.

Boys' Track Runs to Victory

For the first time in years, the Red Raiders Boys' Track team won more meets than they lost. With two new coaches, John Farrell and Frank Corsetti; and four captains, Andy Waugh, Fran Swift, Arthur Brown, and Tony Kingsley, the Raiders found the right combination of leadership, spirit, and talent to overcome their Bay State competition.

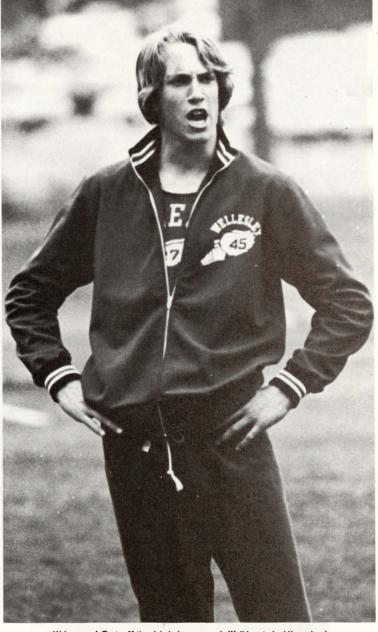

In almost every meet, Wellesley's strength was in the jumping and throwing events, where the Raiders grabbed an early lead. Consistent winners were Tony Kingsley in the high jump, Hal Phillips in the discus, Steve Fontaine in the javelin, and John Hughes in the two-mile. Hughes had the best time of the year in the Bay State League at 10:09. Kingsley now holds two school records — 6'4" in the high jump, and 41.6 seconds in the 330 yard low hurdles. Fontaine holds the school record in the javelin at 181 feet.

Other standouts for Wellesley were Bill Kaplan in the 100 and 440 yard dashes, Arthur Brown in the shot put, Todd LeBleu in the long jump, and Chris Orff in pole vault.

The Raiders look ahead to many more successful seasons in the future.

Girls' Track Finishes a Step Behind

"Ooh, I think I feel sick." (Cindy Kerwin)

Throughout this past season the Girls' Outdoor Track team demonstrated a great deal of heart but fell short of a winning season. Limited numbers of participants; an exceptionally talented league in 1981; and some closely contested events with the Red Raiders on the short end resulted in an overall 2-7-0 record.

The team was led by tri-captains Donna Bibbo, Maryellen Gilfeather, and Caroline Tavis, and although the team finished with a losing record, great spirit was evident throughout the season. In addition, a number of outstanding individuals and relay performances were recorded.

In the sprints, Donna Bibbo, Mary Buchanan, Sarah Crowell, Sally Hinchy, Cindy Kerwin, and Caroline Tavis provided consistent team scoring. Hinchy set a new mark in the 200 meter run, while the combination of Hinchy, Bibbo, Kerwin and Tavis set a new school standard in the 400 meter relay. Team M.V.P. Maryellen Gilfeather displayed her winning ways in the 880 yard run, and joined Janet Murphy, Beth Lyndon, and Nancy Ross to establish a school record in the 1600 meter relay. Beth Lyndon proved herself as one of the league's quality high jumpers, and was joined in that event by a talented leaper, Liz Palmer. Bibbo contributed in the long jump, where Palmer demonstrated her ability as well. Heidi Norton showed good consistency in the shot put, while Cindy Kerwin set a new javelin record.

Although the seniors will be missed, the performances of this year indicate a strong nucleus of talent for next season.

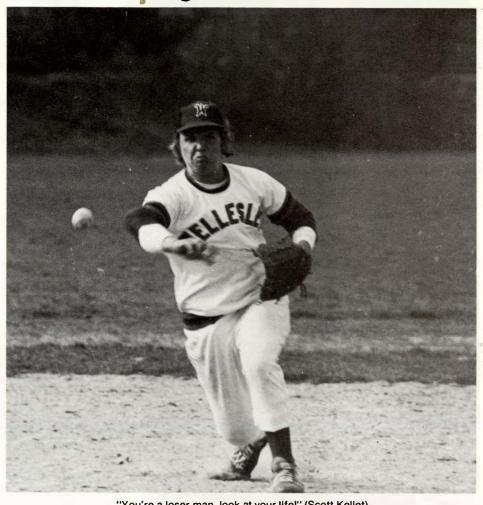

ABOVE: "Aw, come on you GUYS!" (Maryellen Gilfeather)

Raiders Endure Long Season

The Red Raider Baseball team won just two games this year, many fine individual performances notwithstanding. Jon Anastos pitched one win at Framingham South, and kept the Raiders close in all his games. Rick Nickeson had the other win, defeating Needham in a 12-11 thriller at Wellesley. Mike Tucker, one of the very best defensive catchers in the league, was a stalwart behind the plate. Todd Kolb patrolled the outfield with help from Tom Paltrineri, while Scott Kellet and Jim Neville made a snappy double play combination. Greg Tucker guarded the line at third, and Jim O'Glishen shared time with Tom Ward at first.

The Raiders look ahead to better times in the future.

Boys' Tennis Serves Up Superb Season

The Red Raider Boys' Tennis team finished yet another superb season, losing only twice, both times to powerhouse Framingham North. Coach Goddard once again enjoyed the exceptional skills of Larry Rice Tennis Award winner Joe O'Brien at the leadoff singles position. Rick Murray and Ryan Falvey rounded off the singles roster. Scott Lyden and Avery Tung outwitted their opponents in doubles, while Dan McGreevy, David Goganian, and Hugh Miller provided depth to the team.

The team looks forward to another outstanding season next year, as usual.

Mmm . . . mmm . . . Good! (Suzanne McMillen)

"Why doesn't anyone listen to me?" (Coach Heller and team)

"C'mon, Trish, don't you get it?" (Tricia Reynolds, Beth Wales)

The Red Raider Softball team started back on its winning ways this year under the coaching of Dick Heller. With their 8-10 record, the girls proved to be a real contender in a very tight Bay State League.

Throughout the season the girls enjoyed the outstanding leadership of Co-Captains Suzanne McMillen and Tricia Reynolds. Senior Cindy Pearl displayed her versatility by playing various positions, while other seniors Karen Hayde, Cathy Beck, and Beth Wales all helped towards the success of the season. Juniors Lisa Cremonini and Jane Doherty also added great depth to the squad. Sophomore pitching ace Carolyn Brady was chosen as the team's Most Valuable Player, while talented Suzanne McMillen was chosen to represent Wellesley as an All-Star.

With the return of veteran players and the arrival of upcoming sophomores, the team hopes to have continued success next year.

JURIORS

The success of this year's Junior class was due to the leadership of President Linda Casale, Vice President Ryan Falvey, Secretary Patty Capobianco, and Treasurer Sandy Clancy.

The class raised needed money by selling candles and mugs to students, faculty, and the community.

This year, the class of 1982 had a Sadie Hawkins prom. The prom was indeed a success and everyone who attended enjoyed taking part in this event.

SOPRORORES

The spirited Sophomore class was lead by President Doug Van Ham, Vice President Jeff Smith, Secretary Paula Capobianco, and Treasurer Gail Eagen.

The class of 1983 sponsored such events as the Dating Game, the jelly bean count, and a trip for sophomores to an amusement park in the Spring.

The Sophomore class was very successful in raising money for their class. Their new ideas for fund raisers paid off.

Farewell

As one reflects upon Wellesley's Bicentennial year, a surge of mixed emotions on a variety of levels is more than apparent. It was a year when the nation was confronted with such crises as El Salvador and Iran. We, as well, faced the excitement and anxiety of an election year. Within the borders of the state, cities and towns we are left to cope with the devastation of Proposition 2½ and other major economic setbacks. Each one of us, facing our own setbacks and problems, finds ourselves at a crossroads. Within our own town and schoolgrounds we will learn to deal with the resignation of our Principal Timothy Connors. While we attempt to positively influence these inevitable changes, we learn to accept and deal with them, building our own strength and character.

Despite the setbacks of the 1981 year, for most part it was a year of fulfilling dreams and expectations. As Seniors, we bonded friendships and memories as well as putting our best foot forward to each of our chosen path of life.

With these friendships and dreams we have grown to understand and respect each others opinions and outlooks.

Class of 1981, may you hold vividly the fond memories of our high school years forever.

We would like to extend our sincere appreciation to our dedicated advisor Janice Barrett who despite her illness contributed tremendously to the production of this book. Also we would like to thank Peggy Mongiello for her help and guidance while Mrs. Barrett was ill. A special thank you to Art Hall, our Financial Advisor. Also thank you to Marlene Sheehy and Cee-Cee CoCo (Financial Editors) and Staff Editors Maria, Dianne, Mielle, Chris, Meg Laura, Dianne M., Jenny, Amy, Cindy P., Mark B., Joyce, and the entire staff of The Wellesleyan. Especially thank you to Gina Lionette, Donna, Fran, Laurie and Mark W. for their dedication beyond the call of duty. Thanks to Maria, for her humor even on our muggy summer evenings of yearbook. And to us (Shirley and David), retirement from 2:00 a.m. yearbook work. Last, but certainly not least, a special thank you to Gerry "kiddo" Murphy for helping us keep our humor through this great feat.

To Mr. Connors, Mrs. Barrett, and you the class of 1981 we dedicate this Centennial book along with the hopes that all your dreams and wishes come true!

To the class of 1981 "Celebrate" and "Make a Wish"!!!
